PROFESSIONAL SUMMARY:

As an artist, musician, and filmmaker, Evan Alvarado has deep roots in the arts and seeks to understand life through a creative lens. After obtaining an AA degree in music from Northwest Arkansas Community College, he dove headfirst into the live music scene.

Since 2010, he has been playing keyboards with local and regional touring acts. The majority of Evan's professional music career has been spent playing with reggae acts The Irie Lions, and Rochelle Bradshaw. He furthered his artistic development through an internship at Crisp Recording Studios (Fayetteville), as in-house videographer. In 2017, he took a leap of faith and established AENIMATE MEDIA PRODUCTIONS LLC, a small video production business specializing in music and events capture.

Evan continued to focus and thrive in the field of production, and took on the role of Tour Manager for the Mattel Barbie 60th Anniversary tour in 2019. The pandemic in 2020 stripped most event work away from Evan and many others, and so Evan was recruited into the nonprofit sector, and has been doing work in the region since, working for organizations such as The House of Songs, and Creative Arkansas Community Hub & Exchange (CACHE).
