Cabin #1 c. 1935

This cabin is of field-stone masonry construction with continuous stone foundation. It is a one-story, T-shaped cabin of the Rustic Resort style. At the northern corner of the ell intersection is a field-stone chimney. The one-story porch covers nearly half of the southwestern facade, and the floor and columns, as well as the steps leading up to it, are also of field-stone construction. The hipped roof on the cabin and porch is covered with composition shingle. The windows are all double-hung and have a 2-over-2 pane arrangement; however, none of the windows are original. Also, the windows on the sides and back of the cabin are partially filled in with weatherboard. The front-facade window is not filled in, unlike many of the other cabins in the park. A rear patio area projects from the back of the cabin and has a shed roof covering about half of the cut-stone patio.

The land that would comprise Petit Jean State Park was donated to the State of Arkansas in the mid-1920's by individual landowners and sympathetic lumbering concerns as the first step in the formation of a state parks system. The top of Petit Jean Mountain had already been recognized for its scenic splendor, and for its geological wealth and diversity, and so seemed a particularly worthy site. The initial plan of these citizens was to turn the entire site over to the federal government for the establishment of a national park; however, after considerable study, National Park Service officials determined that Petit Jean Mountain was not a unique natural resource when evaluated on a national basis, and thus declined to assume ownership. Yet these same officials strongly encouraged the state to preserve and maintain the site as an important representation of Arkansas's natural heritage, and in 1923, the Arkansas Legislature passed Act 276 authorizing the Commissioner of State Lands to accept land donations for state parks and reservations. Thus began the Arkansas State Parks system, with Petit Jean State Park as its flagship.

Cabin #1 was constructed c. 1935 at Petit Jean State Park by the men of the 1781st Company of the Civilian Conservation Corps, Arkansas District, stationed at Morrilton, Arkansas as a temporary residential building to be used by the park's visitors for overnight accommodations. This facility was constructed by the CCC as part of the overall plan to develop this part of the mountain as a public park to be administered by the state of Arkansas.

This building was erected at Petit Jean State Park by the men of the Civilian Conservation Corps for the purpose of overnight accommodations for park visitors, and was intended to serve those visitors by providing comfortable, modern facilities to enhance the quality of their stay. Thus Cabin #1 is eligible under Criterion A for its associations with both the Civilian Conservation Corps' importance within Arkansas social history and its role in the development of outdoor parks dedicated to public leisure and recreational activities. It is also eligible under Criterion C due to its status as a representative and intact example of the Rustic style of architecture that was made popular nationwide by the CCC, and which has since become virtually identified with it.
